Dear Sir/Madam,

This letter is in response to your concerns over the ability for user storage of data files on the Sentinel HASP software protection key. These keys are designed and implemented to require authentication before write access is granted. The authentication mechanism is not provided to the end user during the life span of the Sentinel HASP software protection key. As such, an end user is restricted from the ability to store any data on the Sentinel key.

Sincerely,

Todd Steel
Product Manager
